The Classes

UNDERGRAD NEWS

1949
Bruce Hopping is chair of the Kalos Kagathos Foundation in Laguna Beach, Calif. The civic and social organization, which he founded in 1953, is dedicated to the health of the body and mind as well as the environment. In January 2012, Bruce and the foundation were honored by Laguna Beach with a proclamation for having "made worthy contributions to the city ... and its citizens" for more than 40 years.

1964
Lawrence Bastone has joined Frago-men, Del Rey, Benssen and Loewy LLP’s Boston office as an of-counsel attorney. He provides customized strategic immigration services and advice. A co-founder of the Massachusetts Bar Association’s immigration law committee, Larry also was a member of the board of governors of the American Immigration Lawyers Association for 15 years.

1969
William Eber emails, “In 2011, after 42 years in public and private accounting in New York City, I moved to Rutland, Vt., and founded Green Mountain Forensic Accounting Inc. (gmfacpa.com), Vermont’s first firm dedicated solely to forensic accounting. The firm’s specialty work includes litigation support services, business valuations, and financial investigations. The lessons I learned at Babson have been central to my career success. I look forward to my 45th reunion in 2014.”

1970
Randall Perry emails, “I am a cyber consultant, working from my home office in St. Petersburg, Fla. After an exciting and colorful career, I still proudly present my Babson credentials with the school’s logo at my sites. Any successes I achieve in today’s highly SEO-driven [search engine optimization] world were forged by the entrepreneurial steps I learned at Babson. Kind regards to fellow alumni and best wishes for Babson’s future.” Randall can be contacted at gotovirtualassist@gmail.com.

1971
Art Scott emails from Menlo Park, Calif., “I’m a semasiographologist (semasiographic.com). We create brand symbols recognized worldwide—the Nike swoosh (graphic), Mickey Mouse’s ears (glyph), the Coca-Cola bottle (picture). You don’t sound them out or read them. You see; you know. My art project, Symmorphometry, is informed by pre-1492 motifs and patterns. I work on the geometry of abstract design.” For more information, contact Art at art_scott@msn.com.

1978 35th Reunion
John Mattone is president of John-MattonePartners (johnmattone partners.com), a consulting firm specializing in executive assessment, development, and coaching. Amacom, the book publishing division of the American Management Association, will release five books authored by John, beginning with Talent Leadership: A Proven Method for Identifying and Developing High-Potential Employees. He is an executive MBA faculty member at Florida Atlantic University and an adjunct faculty member at the Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University.

1980
Johanna Crawford, founder and executive director of Web of Benefi t (webofbenefit.org), has been named chair of the American Immigration Lawyers Association’s immigration law committee. Larry also was a member of the board of governors of the American Immigration Lawyers Association for 15 years.

1949
Bruce Hopping is chair of the Kalos Kagathos Foundation in Laguna Beach, Calif. The civic and social organization, which he founded in 1953, is dedicated to the health of the body and mind as well as the environment. In January 2012, Bruce and the foundation were honored by Laguna Beach with a proclamation for having “made worthy contributions to the city ... and its citizens” for more than 40 years.

1964
Lawrence Bastone has joined Frago-men, Del Rey, Benssen and Loewy LLP’s Boston office as an of-counsel attorney. He provides customized strategic immigration services and advice. A co-founder of the Massachusetts Bar Association’s immigration law committee, Larry also was a member of the board of governors of the American Immigration Lawyers Association for 15 years.

1969
William Eber emails, “In 2011, after 42 years in public and private accounting in New York City, I moved to Rutland, Vt., and founded Green Mountain Forensic Accounting Inc. (gmfacpa.com), Vermont’s first firm dedicated solely to forensic accounting. The firm’s specialty work includes litigation support services, business valuations, and financial investigations. The lessons I learned at Babson have been central to my career success. I look forward to my 45th reunion in 2014.”

1970
Randall Perry emails, “I am a cyber consultant, working from my home office in St. Petersburg, Fla. After an exciting and colorful career, I still proudly present my Babson credentials with the school’s logo at my sites. Any successes I achieve in today’s highly SEO-driven [search engine optimization] world were forged by the entrepreneurial steps I learned at Babson. Kind regards to fellow alumni and best wishes for Babson’s future.” Randall can be contacted at gotovirtualassist@gmail.com.

1971
Art Scott emails from Menlo Park, Calif., “I’m a semasiographologist (semasiographic.com). We create brand symbols recognized worldwide—the Nike swoosh (graphic), Mickey Mouse’s ears (glyph), the Coca-Cola bottle (picture). You don’t sound them out or read them. You see; you know. My art project, Symmorphometry, is informed by pre-1492 motifs and patterns. I work on the geometry of abstract design.” For more information, contact Art at art_scott@msn.com.

1978 35th Reunion
John Mattone is president of John-MattonePartners (johnmattone partners.com), a consulting firm specializing in executive assessment, development, and coaching. Amacom, the book publishing division of the American Management Association, will release five books authored by John, beginning with Talent Leadership: A Proven Method for Identifying and Developing High-Potential Employees. He is an executive MBA faculty member at Florida Atlantic University and an adjunct faculty member at the Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University.

1980
Johanna Crawford, founder and executive director of Web of Benefit (webofbenefit.org), has been named chair of the American Immigration Lawyers Association’s immigration law committee. Larry also was a member of the board of governors of the American Immigration Lawyers Association for 15 years.

John Dombek ’55 has published Rape: Imagine a World Without Violence, his third book and first novel. John emails, “It’s an action-adventure story involving cutting-edge scientific research, high-stakes corporate espionage, and futuristic imaginings of a better world. Set in a biological research company in the outskirts of Madison, Wis., the story follows four young scientists who are developing an unlikely Pentagon weapon, an airborne battlefield agent that turns people docile without harming them.” Contact John at btallmen@infowest.com.

1949
Bruce Hopping is chair of the Kalos Kagathos Foundation in Laguna Beach, Calif. The civic and social organization, which he founded in 1953, is dedicated to the health of the body and mind as well as the environment. In January 2012, Bruce and the foundation were honored by Laguna Beach with a proclamation for having “made worthy contributions to the city ... and its citizens” for more than 40 years.

1964
Lawrence Bastone has joined Frago-men, Del Rey, Benssen and Loewy LLP’s Boston office as an of-counsel attorney. He provides customized strategic immigration services and advice. A co-founder of the Massachusetts Bar Association’s immigration law committee, Larry also was a member of the board of governors of the American Immigration Lawyers Association for 15 years.

1969
William Eber emails, “In 2011, after 42 years in public and private accounting in New York City, I moved to Rutland, Vt., and founded Green Mountain Forensic Accounting Inc. (gmfacpa.com), Vermont’s first firm dedicated solely to forensic accounting. The firm’s specialty work includes litigation support services, business valuations, and financial investigations. The lessons I learned at Babson have been central to my career success. I look forward to my 45th reunion in 2014.”

1970
Randall Perry emails, “I am a cyber consultant, working from my home office in St. Petersburg, Fla. After an exciting and colorful career, I still proudly present my Babson credentials with the school’s logo at my sites. Any successes I achieve in today’s highly SEO-driven [search engine optimization] world were forged by the entrepreneurial steps I learned at Babson. Kind regards to fellow alumni and best wishes for Babson’s future.” Randall can be contacted at gotovirtualassist@gmail.com.

1971
Art Scott emails from Menlo Park, Calif., “I’m a semasiographologist (semasiographic.com). We create brand symbols recognized worldwide—the Nike swoosh (graphic), Mickey Mouse’s ears (glyph), the Coca-Cola bottle (picture). You don’t sound them out or read them. You see; you know. My art project, Symmorphometry, is informed by pre-1492 motifs and patterns. I work on the geometry of abstract design.” For more information, contact Art at art_scott@msn.com.

1978 35th Reunion
John Mattone is president of John-MattonePartners (johnmattone partners.com), a consulting firm specializing in executive assessment, development, and coaching. Amacom, the book publishing division of the American Management Association, will release five books authored by John, beginning with Talent Leadership: A Proven Method for Identifying and Developing High-Potential Employees. He is an executive MBA faculty member at Florida Atlantic University and an adjunct faculty member at the Owen Graduate School of Management at Vanderbilt University.

1980
Johanna Crawford, founder and executive director of Web of Benefit (webofbenefit.org), has been named chair of the American Immigration Lawyers Association’s immigration law committee. Larry also was a member of the board of governors of the American Immigration Lawyers Association for 15 years.

John Dombek ’55 has published Rape: Imagine a World Without Violence, his third book and first novel. John emails, “It’s an action-adventure story involving cutting-edge scientific research, high-stakes corporate espionage, and futuristic imaginings of a better world. Set in a biological research company in the outskirts of Madison, Wis., the story follows four young scientists who are developing an unlikely Pentagon weapon, an airborne battlefield agent that turns people docile without harming them.” Contact John at btallmen@infowest.com.
a CNN Hero, one of the “Everyday People Changing the World.” She was featured on CNN in July. Her nonprofit helps women who have experienced domestic violence get back on their feet by offering small grants. Jo says, “Working with CNN was a huge honor. The heartfelt and generous support we have received from all over the country has been beyond my biggest dreams.”

Rob Gorman has been named executive vice president and CFO at Union First Market Bankshares Corp. in Richmond, Va. Previously, he was at SunTrust Banks Inc., where he had worked since 2002, most recently as senior vice president, director of corporate support services.

Mark Till emails, “I have become a Certified Fraud Examiner after passing four exams. This credential prepares me to examine data and records, interview suspects, write investigation reports, and testify at trials on matters regarding fraud, waste, and abuse. Since 2010, I have worked for the Massachusetts Office of the Inspector General, helping identify more than $3 million in wasteful spending caused by poor procurement procedures, overbilling by vendors, and lack of effective oversight.”

1983 30th Reunion

Bill Allard, executive chairman of Athletes’ Performance, was interviewed by Boston.com for an article posted on May 18, “Out in the Ecosystem: Bill Allard of Athletes’ Performance.”

1986

Gary Coon (MBA ‘02) has been named managing director of Major League Investments Inc., a personal investment counseling firm catering to media personalities, professional athletes, elected officials, and entrepreneurs. The Salem, Mass.-based firm was founded by Michael Finer ’87 in 1996. For more information, contact Gary at gary.coon@majorleagueinvest.com.

1987

Michael Finer, founder and CEO of Salem, Mass.-based Major League Investments Inc. (majorleagueinvest.com), is a lieutenant colonel in the Massachusetts National Guard. He graduated in July from the U.S. Army War College in Carlisle, Pa.

1989

Dave Lamoureux pursues extreme fishing adventures in a kayak, chronicled on his website (fortitudefishing.com). He was filmed in August for an episode of Off the Hook on the Animal Planet cable network. David emails, “Fishing the great white shark-populated waters off Cape Cod has garnered attention, but it’s all about catching the revered bluefin tuna and going for a Nantucket sleigh ride in a kayak two to five miles offshore.” Dave can be contacted at info@fortitudefishing.com.

Mario Ricciardelli is founder and CEO of HipHost (hiphost.com), based in Salem, Mass. He emails, “HipHost is a community marketplace connecting travelers with customized tours hosted by locals in more than 100 cities worldwide. Launched in July, HipHost lets hosts earn extra money for sharing their local expertise with travelers looking for a one-of-a-kind experience. It’s an authentic, affordable, and fun way to Got News? Alumni News is in demand! To accommodate news and photos from as many alumni as possible, please limit entries to 75 words and photo captions to 100 words.

Babson Magazine has two requirements for Alumni News photos: the submitting alumnum must be in the picture, and the image must be at least 4 x 6 inches at 300 dpi—no digital alterations, please. We can’t promise that all submitted photos will run, but we’ll include as many as possible. (See the Weddings page for wedding photo requirements.)

Please email all news to the Alumni News editor at alumniews@babson.edu.
ALUMNI NEWS

Fletcher Gensamer '93 (from left), Jenny Estevez '08, and Luilly Andrade '08 participated in the AIDS Walk New York in May. Fletcher emails, “We helped raise money for over 40 AIDS-related organizations to help find a cure for this disease. Hard to believe, but the banner I am holding I got at the bookstore in 1988 when I took a campus tour before enrolling. Kept it all these years; knew it would come in handy.” Fletcher is founder and president of Gensamer & Co. Marketing Communications LLC (gensamer.co), an advertising and direct marketing agency in New York City.

Lee Kaltman emails, “After working in business for a decade, I pursued a career in education. Inspired by my teaching experience in South Florida and Ithaca, N.Y., I earned an MS in childhood education at SUNY Cortland. I am taking this year to explore ways to introduce concepts and products that shift the current public education paradigm. Education is a $1 trillion a year domestic industry in need of transformation, and I see many opportunities (admin@school.me).”

1996 Marc Girolimetti is founder of Red Raider Studios (facebook.com/redraiderstudios), a gaming company that has developed and launched its first game, Silo. Marc emails, “Our goal is to create smart strategy games. Silo relies on math to execute moves and is perfect for families or commuters.” Marc can be contacted at marc@redraiderstudios.com.

Todd Silverstein is co-founder and director of operations at Gamesmith, a game publishing company in Salem, Ore. He emails, “We’re using Kickstarter to crowd-source the publication of 12 Days, our new family card game. The game, our second, has one of the 12 days of Christmas illustrated on each card. The game can be taught in five minutes, and plays in 15 to 20. Please visit thegamesmith.com for more information.”

1998 Tom Boland has been appointed senior vice president at Social@Ogilvy.

Katie (Sweeney) Pye ’96 (from left), Linda Dexter ’82, MBA ’85, and Beth Morton Eastlack ’98 reminisced in June on the shores of Haley Pond in Rangeley, Maine, where all three live and work. Katie emails, “My husband and I have two children, and I enjoy making accessories to sell at etsy.com/shop/katiepyedesigns. Contact me at katiepyedesigns@yahoo.com.” Linda is owner and operator of Ecopelagicon (ecopelagicon.com), a store specializing in outdoor books, gifts, and gear and Maine-made products, and Beth, a real estate agent, works in her family’s business, Morton & Furbish Rental Agency (rangeleyrentals.com).

Eddie Gallagher ’98 (left) emails, “In August, Jon Cignetti ’98 (right) and I ran in Cape Cod’s Falmouth Road Race to raise money for Donate Life New England. The nonprofit is a project of three federally designated organ-procurement organizations that serve New England. Alison Connelly Boutette ’01 and Kelly Darmon (wife of Chris Darmon ’01) also ran for our team. Many thanks to the Babson alumni who supported our fundraising efforts. If you would like to learn more about Donate Life New England, contact me at edward.m.gallagher@gmail.com or Jon at jcignetti@yahoo.com.” Eddie is a Babson Alumni Association board member.

“I truly enjoy designing and delivering programs for business leaders and entrepreneurs at BEEE. Our focus on Entrepreneurial Thought and Action® pushes organizations to continuously innovate and fearlessly experiment.”

—HEIDI NECK
JEFFRY A. TIMMONS PROFESSOR OF ENTREPRENEURIAL STUDIES
a new practice of ad agency Ogilvy & Mather that connects its social media experts worldwide. Previously, he was senior director, partnership marketing at World Wrestling Entertainment. Tom blogs at tomboland.tumblr.com.

2000
Louis Talarico has been named an associate at Coastal Business Brokers in New Bedford, Mass. The business brokerage firm provides professional services to sellers and buyers of small to mid-size companies in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Coastal Business Brokers is a division of The Nery Corp., where Louis also is an associate. He can be contacted at ltalarico@nerycorp.com.

2003 10th Reunion
Nareg Kandilian emails, “I recently founded my own law firm, Kandilian Law Offices (kandilianlaw.com), in Watertown, Mass. My firm specializes exclusively in immigration law, and I have the opportunity to meet with people from all over the world as a daily part of my practice. Most of all, I have the chance to expand my network of international colleagues and acquaintances, one of many core Babson values.”

Raj Sheth is co-founder of Recruiterbox (recruiterbox.com), which offers job-applicant tracking software. He emails, “Companies such as Groupon and Levi’s use our Web-based software to receive and manage job applications because it allows their teams to collaborate on hiring in the simplest way possible. After a year of inbound marketing, we are starting an inside sales process to proactively reach potential customers. If you have been down a similar path, please share your thoughts at raj@recruiterbox.com.”

Andre Terrail is CEO and owner of La Tour d’Argent, a landmark Parisian restaurant that has been in his family for three generations. He was interviewed for a profile, “A Day in the Life: Owner of La Tour d’Argent,” posted on Businessweek.com on Aug. 28. In addition, Andre is in charge of the restaurant’s boutique, which sells wines and related products, and a second restaurant, La Rotisserie du Beaujolais, also in Paris.

2004
Rich Eicher is founder of Skycore LLC (skycore.com), a mobile marketing and commerce software company in Boston. Skycore was featured in an Aug. 10 article, “Skycore Launches Code Validation Software,” on masshightech.com. The company has launched Scan Mask, a new technology that eliminates complicated database management to validate tickets for events.

2005
Ashley (Jain) Tevatia and Sanjay Rama are founders of Trips-N-Salsa, a technology startup in the travel industry. Ashley emails, “Trips-N-Salsa is changing the way hotels and small businesses connect and create valuable relationships by providing a robust online contract negotiation and booking engine. Come chat with us on Twitter @tripsnsalsa, or check out our site at tripsnsalsa.com. We love chatting about technology, entrepreneurship, and, of course, travel.”

2006
Andrew Bachman was featured in a June 18 article, “Six Sizzling Entrepreneurs Under 40,” on The Huffington Post. Scambook.com is Andy’s latest project. He is president of the firm, which he and Lin Miao ’08 founded. Scambook gives consumers a platform to register complaints against

Megan Crowe ’00 emails, “Knack-Master (knackmaster.com), a company I founded with Ricardo Leon, has launched its first product on Apple’s App Store. Neat Bed is the first of many apps in the Enzo & Friends series, which will help teach children responsibility at home. Neat Bed shows children how to make their bed through storytelling and animated games. The app is free for a limited time. Tell me what you think at megan.crowe@knackmaster.com.”

Anil Melwani ’01 emails from New York City, “My firm, Armel Tax & Accounting Services (armeltax.com), specializes in helping new businesses establish a smart financial foundation. My staff and I focus on the accounting aspects, leaving our clients to focus on what they do best: building their businesses. Contact me at cpa@armeltax.com if you’re a Babson accounting major seeking opportunities in New York. Would love to hear from you!” Anil lives in Manhattan with his wife and their two daughters.

Tommy Lydon ’03 (second from left) emails, “This summer, I was one of three drivers on the winning team in the 24 Hours of LeMons endurance race at New Hampshire Motor Speedway. LeMons, a form of low-cost auto racing, is the fastest-growing motor sport in the U.S. Our team beat more than 100 cars to the finish after 24 hours of racing. Timothy Richer ’03 (far left), Stephen Robb ’03 (third from left), and Mark Goodale (far right) were our pit crew. The other drivers were Gary Hattersley (third from right) and Bill Goodale (second from right).”

David Hsu ’03 (right) emails, “Matt Nolan ’03 (left) and I survived successful bull runs during this year’s San Fermin festival in Pamplona, Spain. An experience of a lifetime; a party like none other!” David is a vice president at Deloitte CRG, and Matt works for Boston Technologies.

Visit us at tripsnsalsa.com. We love chatting about technology, entrepreneurship, and, of course, travel.”
Margaret Schlachter ’05 emailed in July, “Babson taught me there is no reward without risk. So I left education to pursue my passion in obstacle racing—specifically Spartan Race. After turning pro a few months ago, I became the world’s first professional female obstacle racer. And I turned my blog (dirtinmyskirt.com) into a full business, where you can follow my adventures, order gear, and find training tips and sponsorship opportunities. In October, I’m moving to Utah to train full time, run my business, and race worldwide. Hope to connect with alums as I move west!”

Jaemin Lee ’08 (from left), Kevin Lau, and Ian So ’08 are founders and owners of Boston-based The Chicken & Rice Guys (thechenicericeguys.com), a food truck business. Ian emails, “We offer Middle East-style chicken, lamb, and combo dishes. This is a tough, tough business. A typical day can be 16 hours long when you factor in travel, serving, cooking, cleaning, and preparation. But the work is extremely rewarding, especially when people come to our window with big smiles in anticipation of the tasty meal we’re going to serve them!” The fourth owner, Jenny Giang, is not pictured.

Interactive tabs that highlight professional similarities. I launched the app in August! Check it out at ganderapp.com.” Lauren can be contacted at lauren@greatheights.io.

Aron Schwarzkopf, co-founder and CEO of Cambridge, Mass.-based Leaf (leaf.me), was featured on June 28 on BostInno.com, “Leaf Turns Paying with Your Credit Card into a Charitable, Interactive Experience.” When customers use a credit card, the app sends a paperless receipt and a prompt to rate the merchant. The transaction data is then sent to the merchant. In addition, a portion of the sale can be donated to a charity of the consumer’s choice.

Cole Mercer ’10 (left) is vice president, product development at Wahooly.com in Austin, Texas. He emails, “Connor Hood ’11 (center) and Peter Elias ’12 (right) are two of four co-founders of Wahooly, a company that works with tech startups and helps them gain feedback, promotion, and investors. We listened to feedback from users of our beta site and redesigned many features and flows of our platform. Over the next months, we’ll expand our feature set to promote deeper user engagement and advanced analytics. We also are adding many new startups to the platform.”

companies and individuals and find resolution. They also founded Tattoo Media, which they sold. Shonak Patel sat on a technology and philanthropy panel at the White House in August as one of 12 AmeriCorps honorees recognized as a Champion of Change, someone who has leveraged the AmeriCorps experience to become a community leader. A 2009-2010 AmeriCorps volunteer in New Orleans, Shonak was the Finance and Development Fellow with the New Orleans Neighborhood Development Collaborative. He is co-founder of Boston-based Gather Education (gathereducation.com), a virtual classroom platform that makes online teaching and learning simple and accessible.

2008 5th Reunion
Polina Raygorodskaya is co-founder of Wanderu (wanderu.com), a startup that helps travelers find and book intercity buses and trains between any two points in the U.S. The company was featured in a July 22 article, “Wanderu Website Grounds Search for Buses, Trains,” in the Boston Herald.

2009
Andrew Kitzenberg and Jeff Brayer were featured in an article, “‘Cool’ Convenient Wristbands Contain Wahooly, a company that works with tech startups and helps them gain feedback, promotion, and investors. We listened to feedback from users of our beta site and redesigned many features and flows of our platform. Over the next months, we’ll expand our feature set to promote deeper user engagement and advanced analytics. We also are adding many new startups to the platform.”

Cameron Sheldrake ’12 is founder of Off the Cob Sweet Corn Tortilla Chips (sweetcornchips.com). He emails, “The gluten-free, kosher chips, which are certified to be non-genetically modified, are made with naturally sweet corn, expeller-pressed sunflower oil, and organic white and yellow corn. I’m shown on my family’s farm in Ithaca, N.Y., where I made a video to introduce the Jalapeno and Salt & Pepper flavors. The original Lightly Salted flavor is available in Whole Foods stores in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Maine. The new flavors will be available in January when we expand to New York state.”

Margaret Schlachter ’05 emailed in July, “Babson taught me there is no reward without risk. So I left education to pursue my passion in obstacle racing—specifically Spartan Race. After turning pro a few months ago, I became the world’s first professional female obstacle racer. And I turned my blog (dirtinmyskirt.com) into a full business, where you can follow my adventures, order gear, and find training tips and sponsorship opportunities. In October, I’m moving to Utah to train full time, run my business, and race worldwide. Hope to connect with alums as I move west!”
1976 Timothy Palmatier has been named finance director of Jefferson Parish, La. The parish includes most of the suburbs of New Orleans. A lawyer and CPA, he was undersecretary of management for the secretary of state from 2010 to 2012. Before that, he was an administrator for the Louisiana Supreme Court, where he worked from 1983 to 2010.

1982 Akio Toyoda, P’14, was featured in a Forbes.com article, “Toyota’s ‘Shogun’ CEO Akio Toyoda Determined to Save Japan’s Manufacturing Base,” posted on June 17. At the June shareholders’ meeting, he said that the Toyota Group will continue to produce vehicles in Japan and to export half of them.

1985 Andrea Schoening-Novakowski was inducted into the hall of fame of the International Coach Federation of New England in June. Andrea is an executive coach; she can be contacted at andrea@coachandrea.com.

1989 Thomas Greenfield has been named senior vice president and chief underwriting officer at The Republic Group, headquartered in Dallas. Republic provides personal and commercial property and casualty insurance products. He had been senior vice president, field operations of the insurance companies of QBE Regional Insurance since 2007.

1992 Stephen Laster has been appointed chief digital officer at McGraw-Hill Education, a provider of print and online educational materials worldwide. He had been chief information officer at Harvard Business School since 2006.

1996 Peter Economou, CFA, has been appointed chief risk officer at eSecLending, a global securities lending agent based in Boston. Before this position, he worked at State Street and Morgan Stanley.

1997 Mara Charlamb has been appointed a director of the advisory council for the central New York region of M&T Bank. The bank has more than 700 branches, primarily on the East Coast. Mara is vice president, director of human resources, and owner of United Radio Inc. (unitedradio.com) in Syracuse, N.Y.

1998 15th Reunion Anna Giraldo-Kerr is founder and CEO of Shades of Success Inc. (shadesofsuccessinc.com), a leadership development organization. The coaching and consulting firm advocates self-sufficiency, mindfulness, and lifelong learning. She has conducted workshops and coaching sessions at national and international venues, including Babson.

Kate O’Halloran has been named director of development and alumni connections at Carrabassett Valley Academy in Carrabassett Valley, Maine. Located at the base of Sugarloaf Mountain ski area, the school offers a college preparatory academic education to student-athletes in seventh grade through post-graduate year. Previously,

We want to hear from you! Send your suggestions, submissions, and letters to: Editor, Babson Magazine; Babson College; Babson Park, MA 02457-0310; alumnusnews@babson.edu; 781-239-5256. PLEASE NOTE: Babson Magazine reserves the right to edit. No engagement or baby photos. News and photos may be used on Babson’s website.
1. Robin Allen ’04 and Jonathan Glover ’02 were married on Jan. 15 in Key West, Fla. Babson friends in attendance included (from left) Reginald Johnson ’02; Kasib Mateen ’05; Rashonda Richardson ’02; Patricia Finetto ’04; Benny Benjamin ’02; Jennifer Phelps ’04; Kenye Jones-Downing ’01; Alexander Hawkins ’04; Nicole Thorne ’02; Carol Hacker, vice president, Alumni and Friends Network; Rebecca Hawkins ’04; Jennime Fevrier ’05; Jennise Hall ’02; Mario Tate ’02; and Eugene Oh ’02.

2. Michelle Toth ’08 and Brian Deegan ’07 were married on May 27 in Boston. Babson guests at the wedding were Marc Mandt, MBA’96; Eileen Holcomb ’06; Ben Belcher, Eric Flaum, Gregory Gomer, Jonathan Kardos, James McClure, Lindsey Miller, Josh Nespoli, Nikki Penikas, Tom Prykucki, and Luis Santiago, all ’07; Lillian Cullen, Monica Mackey, MBA’97, has been appointed chief philanthropy officer at Peabody Essex Museum (PEM) in Salem, Mass. Previously, she directed development programs for Stanford University’s schools of law and engineering. Monica emails, “I am excited by my newest post because, like Babson, PEM is defined by entrepreneurship. The Salem ship captains who founded the museum in 1799 were America’s first entrepreneurs. PEM honors their passion for global trade.” Monica is shown with one of the museum’s Chinese Buddha lions.

3. Stephanie White ’09 and Weston Jossey were married on April 28 in New Castle, N.H. The wedding party included Darius Eslami, Mariissa Ferber, and man of honor Aaron Hartman, all ’09. Among the guests were Jeff Mulligan ’82; MBA’85; Judy Mulligan ’83; Leslie Veley, MSM’10; Vanessa Theoharis ’10; and Kerry Liszka ’11. The couple lives in Boston, where Stephanie is a strategy leader at iProspect; Weston is a software engineer at Tapjoy in Cambridge.

4. Michael Widmer, MBA’06 (center, right), and Alvaro Amador (left) were married on May 5 at Trinity Episcopal Church in Boston, where the couple lives and works. Michael is a vice president for information technology program management at State Street Corp., and Alvaro is a

Kate was director of gift planning and major gifts at MaineGeneral Health.

Richard Sawchak (MSA) has been named CFO at Novetta Solutions, which serves the IT and software needs of the security industry. He also is corporate secretary. Previously, he was executive vice president and CFO at Shafer Corp.

2002

Brian Abraham has been named executive director of Spartan Innovations, a Michigan State University Foundation subsidiary that is focused on launching sustainable startup companies from the university’s research innovations. Previously, he was CEO at ProteQ, a defense technology company.

Gary Coon (’86): See Undergrad news.

2003 10th Reunion

Jim Poss founded BigBelly Solar Inc. (bigbellysolar.com), formerly known as Seahorse Power Co., in 2003. The company has installed its solar-powered BigBelly trash and recycling receptacles around the world and throughout the U.S. in cities such as Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago. The company was featured in The Boston Globe in a July 14 article, “Boston to Install 400 Solar-Powered Trash Cans.”

2006

Kevin Munnelly has been appointed president and CEO at Gen9 Inc.,
Tracee Petrillo, MBA’00 (right), emails, “I was at Yankee Stadium in late July (watching the Red Sox, of course) and bumped into Ray Acciardo, MBA’69 (center), and his daughter, Kelli (left). We randomly met in a stadium filled with 50,000 people—we were easy to find because Ray and I were wearing Red Sox gear! Ray also is the father of Pamela (Acciardo) Buckley ’89.” Tracee is chief of staff at Babson.

6. Ashley Burgess ’06 and Michael Gall were married on June 3 in Pasadena, Md., overlooking the Chesapeake Bay. Among the 16 alumni at the wedding were bridesmaid Katie Janson and maid of honor Kaitlyn Knowles, both ’06. The couple lives in Palm Coast, Fla.

7. Diana Shi ’07 and Minh Bui ’05 were married on June 28 at the Kahala Hotel & Resort in Honolulu. Among the guests were 22 alumni, including maids of honor Jennifer Bell ’06 and Tara Friedman ’07; bridesmaids Nikki Nguyen ’05 and Angela Stevenson ’07, MSA’07; best man Jeff Gordon ’05; and groomsmen Blake Leong ’05 and Alan Medvin ’05. The couple lives in Philadelphia.

8. Jason Leboeuf, MBA’11, and Danielle Morin were married on June 30 at The Wentworth Inn in Jackson, N.H. Jason emails, “I received a job offer from EMC on our honeymoon and started in August as a product manager for the flash business unit. Danielle, a middle school science teacher, loves her job, but jokes that she received her ‘Junior MBA’ through all the business discussions we had while I attended Babson.”

Based in Cambridge, Mass. Gen9 is a biotech firm working on next-generation gene synthesis. Previously, Kevin was general manager at Life Technologies Corp., a life sciences company.

Babson Magazine requires at least 4 x 6-inch images at 300 dpi. No digital alterations, please! Wedding captions may run up to 75 words.

Email your photo and caption to alumnews@babson.edu. Mail traditional prints to Alumni News Editor, Babson Magazine, Babson College, Babson Park, MA 02457. If you have photo questions, contact the Alumni News editor at alumnews@babson.edu or 781-239-4269.

Are you on Pinterest? Pin your wedding or baby pictures to our boards! Find us at pinterest.com/babsoncollege.

Send your news and photos to alumnews@babson.edu.
2010

Shiv Agarwal, co-founder of cloud computing startup CPUsage (cpusage.com), was profiled in an article, “CPUsage Wants to Harness Idle Computer Power for Others to Use,” in The Oregonian on July 9. CPUsage offers computer owners an opportunity to earn rewards with their idle computers when they download the company’s software program.

Sara Gragnolati is founder of Cocomama Foods Inc. (cocomamafoods.com), a line of all-natural, gluten-free quinoa cereals. The cereals are available in four flavors—orange cranberry, wild blueberry, banana cinnamon, and honey almond—and contain real fruit. In August, Cocomama launched its line in 230 stores, including Whole Foods and Wegmans.

Matt Nuernberger is co-founder of GrandTen Distilling (grandten.com), a craft liquor distillery in Boston. He was featured in an Aug. 29 article, “Why Starting Your Own Company, or Brewing Your Own Gin, Should Never Be a Gamble,” posted on BostInno.com. So far, GrandTen has released its Wire Works American gin and Fire Puncher vodka.

2011

Matt Chatham, three-time Super Bowl champion and former New England Patriots linebacker, has joined the Boston Herald’s NFL coverage team. He writes twice a week for the newspaper, and his columns run in print and on the website. He also is a regular football analyst on TV’s NESN Daily, on Comcast SportsNet at csnne.com, and on Boston’s WEEI sports radio network.

Matt Klein was featured in an article, “Clemson Grows New Class of Entrepreneurs: Master’s Program Aims to Take Student Ideas to the Market in 12 Months, as They Earn Degree,” in the July 25 Independent Mail. Matt is an adjunct faculty member at the Greenville, S.C., campus of Clemson University. An account executive for Neustar, he teaches basic business concepts and strategies.

Scott Rousseau emails, “A few months ago, I took the entrepreneurial leap of faith and purchased my first business, Beyond the Shaker, an all-natural, gourmet sea salt and...”
In Memoriam

Karen Levin of Salem, Mass., died on Aug. 10. An assistant professor at Babson, she taught statistics from 1988 to 1990 and then mathematics until 1992. She received undergraduate and master’s degrees from Stanford University and a doctorate from Boston University.

Donald Davis ‘43 of Minnetonka, Minn., died on Aug. 2. He served in the Army during World War II and the Korean War. He was an intervention counselor at the Johnson Institute.

Dean Boylan ‘50 of Needham died on July 21. He began working at his family’s company, Boston Sand & Gravel Co., in 1950 and became president in 1956.

William Colman ‘50 of Salt Lake City and Edgartown, Mass., died on Dec. 7, 2011. He served in the Navy during World War II.

Richard Woodruff ‘50 of Midlothian, Va., died on July 15. He served in the Army Air Forces during World War II. He was a manager at General Dynamics in Pomona, Calif.

Donald Rockwood ‘52, MBA‘53, of Marshfield, Mass., died on July 24. He served in the Army during the Korean War.

George Slye ‘53 of Tuftonboro, N.H., and Naples, Fla., died on July 13. He served in the Navy and Navy Reserve. A real estate developer, he was a co-founder of Spaulding & Slye. A member of the Babson Corporation from 1977 to 1979, he received the Babson Medal in 1987. He leaves his son, David Slye ‘82.

Stuart Laughlin ‘55 of Waltham, Mass., formerly of Newton, died on June 19. He served in the Air Force during the Korean War. He was a marketing and PR consultant for Bird Inc.

Roland Schroeder ‘55 of Mystic, Conn., formerly of Savannah, Ga., died on Aug. 29. He was a Navy veteran and president of Banc One in Green Bay, Wis.

Harrison Smith ‘55 of Williamston, Mich., died on Aug. 24. He was second vice president, corporate trust division at National Bank of Detroit.

John Lawrence ‘57 of Grove City, Pa., died on Dec. 21, 2011. He was an Army veteran and a self-employed farmer.

Raymond Ward ‘57 of Castleton-on-Hudson, N.Y., died on Aug. 21. He served in the military in Korea.

Thomas Larmore ‘58 of Windsor, Conn., died on Aug. 6. He was an Army veteran. He worked in financial services at Cigna.

Paul McCann ‘58, MBA‘59, of Brockton, Mass., died on July 24. A Navy veteran, he was an officer of Imperial-Comerica Bank in Los Angeles.

Frederick Yuengling ‘59 of Delray Beach, Fla., died on Aug. 3. Until 1985, he was owner and president of Yuengling Dairy Products Corp. in Pottstown, Pa.

Edward Rappaport ‘60 of Holtsville, N.Y., died on June 4.

Yale Morse ‘62 of Concord, N.H., formerly of Bow, died on June 15. A counselor, he worked for Riverbend Community Mental Health and had a private practice in Manchester.

Lawrence Rahilly ‘63 of Spring Lake, Mich., died on June 25. He served in the Army during the Vietnam War and worked for Interstate Motor Freight.

Patrick Kelley ‘64 of Tewksbury, Mass., died on July 11. The owner of Eagle Adjustment Service in Chelmsford, he was a self-employed insurance investigator.

Timothy Martien ’66 of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, died on Aug. 5. An antiques dealer, he specialized in early American furniture and accessories.

Thomas Skelly, MBA‘66, of Naples, Fla., and Westwood, Mass., died on June 15. An Army veteran, he served in the Signal Corps. He was CFO at Gillette Co. He leaves his son, John Skelly ‘85.

John Thomas, MBA‘69, of Steilacoom, Wash., died on July 17. A retired lieutenant colonel, he served in the Army from 1953 to 1973. He then worked in real estate.

Donald Mordecai, MBA‘70, of Scarborough, Maine, died on July 23. A Navy veteran, he taught at the U.S. Naval Academy. He later worked at various independent schools.

Joseph Murphy, MBA‘71, of North Easton, Mass., died on June 24. He served in the Air Force during the Vietnam War. A CPA, he operated an accounting firm in Easton.

David Oser ‘73 of Bala Cynwyd, Pa., died on Aug. 5.

Barbara Cunney, MBA‘81, of Salem, Mass., died on Aug. 19. She worked in systems analysis and software testing with companies such as John Hancock Insurance Co. and Comcast.

Michael Darman, MBA‘82, of Framingham, Mass., died on Aug. 10.

Thomas O’Neill, MBA‘84, of Berkeley Heights, N.J., died on June 7. He was a client service administrator at Computershare.

David Oser ‘73 of Bala Cynwyd, Pa., died on Aug. 5.

Barbara Cunney, MBA’81, of Salem, Mass., died on Aug. 19. She worked in systems analysis and software testing with companies such as John Hancock Insurance Co. and Comcast.

Michael Darman, MBA’82, of Framingham, Mass., died on Aug. 10.

Thomas O’Neill, MBA’84, of Berkeley Heights, N.J., died on June 7. He was a client service administrator at Computershare.

Cameron Smith ‘05 of Manchester, N.H., formerly of Harvard, Mass., died on June 27. He was a financial analyst at EMC and Comcast Corp.