“… let us chart our lives so that what we do will:
(1) perform a needed service and make the world a better place in which to live;
(2) make ourselves, and also others, so far as we can, healthier and stronger physically;
(3) free ourselves, and others, as much as possible, from worry, care, and mental stress.”

— Roger Babson, “What Is Success?” (1923)
Welcome to the ninety-fifth annual Commencement exercises at Babson College.

The College community is pleased and proud to share this memorable day with you.

Your enthusiastic support of each graduate is appreciated. As a courtesy to the graduates, please reserve your applause until all candidates have received their diplomas.

Arrangements have been made for a professional photographer and a video crew to take pictures of each degree candidate, and film the ceremony. This will eliminate the need for guests to leave their seats to take photos during the ceremony. Proofs will be available through Grad Images at 1-800-424-3686 or www.gradimages.com, and GradMemory at 1-866-977-4723 or www.gradmemory.com.

At the conclusion of the Commencement exercises, please join us for a light reception in the Reynolds Campus Center.

THE BABSON COLLEGE HONORARY DEGREE

An honorary degree is the highest accolade a college or university can bestow and usually is awarded during the Commencement ceremony. Babson College has given honorary degrees since presenting a doctor of laws degree in 1959 to Ewan Clague, commissioner for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. While the award specifics are unique to each person, a common trait of all recipients is their commitment to service in its broadest sense. Most honored by the College have distinguished themselves as entrepreneurs and executives; however, Babson College also has honored a variety of prominent individuals from various backgrounds, including Generals James Gavin and George H. Akin; Senators Leverett Saltonstall, Edward M. Kennedy, and John F. Kerry; Governor William F. Weld; journalist Robert L. Bartley; scholars Alfred D. Chandler Jr. and Leonard Woodcock; music directors Sarah Caldwell and Arthur Fiedler; basketball legend KC Jones; digital media pioneers Reid Hoffman and Biz Stone; former faculty members Clint Peterson and Peter Black; former Babson presidents and trustees; and, most notably, our own distinguished alumni.

Roger W. Babson, founder of Babson College, said, “I have always tried to visualize a world of change rather than a world at rest.” Babson College celebrates these men and women for the changes their service has brought.
TORY BURCH

CEO and Designer of Tory Burch

Tory Burch is an American lifestyle brand that embodies the personal style and sensibility of its CEO and designer, Tory Burch. The collection, known for color, print, and eclectic details, includes ready-to-wear clothing, shoes, handbags, accessories, and beauty. Art, music, travel, interiors, and the designer’s stylish parents are inspirations for the collection.

The company launched in 2004 with a small boutique in Manhattan’s Nolita neighborhood. The brand’s classic but bohemian aesthetic resonated with tastemakers from the very beginning.

Tory Burch is a global business with more than 120 freestanding boutiques and a presence in more than 3,000 department and specialty stores. Toryburch.com, which launched in 2004, is the company’s biggest store and also is home to The Tory Blog, an online magazine with all-original content. Known for digital innovation, the company also has websites in Europe and Asia; a Webby-nominated app, Tory Daily; and a robust social media presence.

Since its launch, Tory Burch has entered into new categories: with eyewear in partnership with Luxottica in 2009; fragrance and beauty with Estée Lauder in 2013; and timepieces with Fossil coming in 2014.

The brand has been recognized by the fashion industry with several awards, including: the CFDA for Accessory Designer of the Year; Accessory Brand Launch of the Year from Accessories Council of Excellence; and Rising Star award from Fashion Group International. Burch was named one of Forbes’s Most Powerful Women in the World.

Social responsibility is an integral part of the company. In 2009, the Tory Burch Foundation was launched to support the economic empowerment of women entrepreneurs and their families in the United States. Through loans, mentorship, and entrepreneurial education, the foundation invests in the success and sustainability of women-owned small businesses.
Leonard A. Schlesinger returned to the Harvard Business School as a Baker Foundation Professor of Business Administration in July 2013 after concluding a five-year term as the 12th president of Babson College. At Babson, he successfully managed the challenges of improving academic, reputational, and financial outcomes for a uniquely positioned college. The College simultaneously has been ranked as the No. 1 institution for entrepreneurship for both its Undergraduate and Graduate programs by both Bloomberg Businessweek and U.S. News & World Report for the entire history of their reporting, i.e. 21 years at the Graduate level for U.S. News, for example.

Prior to Babson, Schlesinger was at Limited Brands, now known as L Brand, based in Columbus, Ohio, where he served in executive positions from 1999–2007, most recently as vice chairman and chief operating officer. From 1985–1988, he was executive vice president and chief operating officer at Au Bon Pain.

His earlier academic career includes 20 years at Harvard Business School, where he served as the George Fisher Baker Jr. Professor of Business Administration, leading MBA and executive education programs. Courses he taught included organizational behavior, human resource management, general management, and service management. Schlesinger is well-known for his pioneering research and publications on the Service Profit Chain. He also was architect and chair of Harvard Business School’s MBA Essential Skills and Foundations programs. After his tenure on the Harvard Business School faculty, he served as a professor of sociology and public policy and senior vice president and counselor to the president at Brown University from 1998–1999.

Schlesinger has lectured and consulted on service quality, customer satisfaction, entrepreneurship, and organizational change for more than 200 major corporations, nonprofit organizations, governments, and international leadership organizations around the world. He was an active leader in the design and development of the Work-Out! initiative at General Electric and the Reinventing Government process for the U.S. Department of Labor.

His writings on entrepreneurship, service management, and organizational management have been widely published. He is the author or co-author of 11 books, including Just Start: Take action, Embrace uncertainty, Create the future (Harvard Business School Press, 2012), Action Trumps Everything (Black Ink Press, 2010), The Value Profit Chain (Free Press, 2003), The Service Profit Chain (Free Press, 1997) and The Real Heroes of Business . . . and Not a CEO among Them (Doubleday Currency, 1994), and has written numerous articles for academic audiences as well as for The New York Times, Fast Company, and Harvard Business Review. He has served on the editorial boards of five major academic journals and has published numerous management case studies that have sold well over one million copies. He also has completed three video series on service management.

Schlesinger currently serves as vice chairman of the board of the Network for Teaching Entrepreneurship (NFTE), a director of Viewpost, LLC, a member of the Corporation of the Winsor School, and is a member of the President’s Council of the Franklin W. Olin College of Engineering. He also serves as an advisory council member of Goldman Sachs’ 10,000 Small Businesses Initiative, and as a member of both the Council on Competitiveness and the Council on Foreign Relations. His work in corporate governance spans a broad range of privately held, public, and not-for-profit organizations.

Schlesinger earned his Doctor of Business Administration from Harvard Business School, his MBA from Columbia University, and his Bachelor of Arts in American civilization from Brown University. His wife, Phyllis, is a longtime member of the Babson College faculty, specializing in organizational behavior with a prior faculty appointment at The Ohio State University’s Fisher School of Business. They have three grown daughters.

ROGER WARD BABSON (Roger Ward Babson (1919–1921) was a highly successful pioneer in the financial investment business. On September 3, 1919, he opened the Babson Institute with an enrollment of 27 students.

In 1921, Babson named George Coleman (1921–1935) as the second president. That same year, Babson was incorporated under the educational laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as a not-for-profit institution.

In 1923, Babson acquired farmland in Wellesley Hills, established an endowment fund, and began to build a campus. By the end of that year, Mustard, Bryant, and Lyon (now Lukšić) Halls, and Knight Auditorium were completed. Two years later, the Babson Park Clubhouse and Coleman Hall were finished. To accommodate the rise in student enrollment, the Clubhouse was renamed Park Manor South, and the hotel rooms, originally designed for visiting businessmen, became residence rooms for Babson students.

With the appointment of Carl Smith (1935–1944), Babson was now led by its first professional educator. He reorganized the curriculum, adding liberal arts courses, and in 1943, Babson Institute received permission to confer both the bachelor of science and master of business administration degrees.

Following World War II, Babson, which had been used by the U.S. Navy for three years, reopened to record enrollments. New President Edward B. Hinckley (1946–1956) tightened admission standards and strengthened the academic content. By 1950, the Institute had received accreditation from the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Under Gordon Trim (1957–1961), an evening MBA program was developed and the first alumni fundraising effort was held to fund the construction of the dining hall that bears his name.

Henry Kriebel (1961–1974), the school’s sixth president, expanded the curriculum to four years, redefined its mission as a school of management, opened the doors to women, began a massive building program, created the School of Continuing Education, and changed the name from Babson Institute to Babson College. Kriebel’s administration laid the foundation for the next 20 years of development.

Babson’s seventh president, Ralph Z. Sorenson H’85 (1974–1981), also strengthened the curriculum. He created the Center for Entrepreneurial Studies in 1978, and Babson became the first college in the United States to offer entrepreneurship as a major. Horn Library was built, the Babson Recreation Center (now the Boston Sports Club) was completed, and more student housing was added.

In 1981, William R. Dill H’91 (1981–1989) became the College’s eighth president. He placed a greater emphasis on a curriculum, faculty, and student body that focused on globalization. Many campus buildings were renovated and others added, including the Webster Center for physical education and recreation, to provide students with state-of-the-art facilities and services, thus enabling Babson to compete with the nation’s top business programs. It was during the Dill era that the Center for Executive Education (now the Babson Executive Conference Center) was added.

During the presidency of William F. Glavin H’99 (1989–1997), Babson moved from being a strong regional presence to an internationally respected school of business. Building on the College’s legacy of entrepreneurship, the idea of entrepreneurial leadership was woven into every aspect of the institution. Glavin believed that people at all stages of their careers could demonstrate entrepreneurial leadership and become well-rounded, analytical problem-solvers who seize opportunities and move boldly and creatively to take advantage of them.

In 1997, Leo I. Higdon Jr. H’07 (1997–2001) became the 10th president to lead Babson College. He strengthened Babson’s curriculum with a renewed emphasis on technology, practice-based learning, and entrepreneurship in a global context. A commitment to diversity and the arts brought about the opening of the Reynolds Campus Center, Richard W. Sorenson Center for the Arts, and the Glavin Family Chapel. Higdon also was instrumental in establishing the Center for Women’s Leadership at Babson College.

Brian M. Barefoot ’66, H’09, P’01 (2001–2008), Babson’s 11th president, was the first Babson alumnus to hold this position. During his presidency, Babson developed a long-term strategic and financial plan, expanded the College’s leadership in entrepreneurship, improved the quality of campus life, committed to new efforts in diversity, strengthened the alumni network, and partnered with leading global educational institutions.

Leonard A. Schlesinger H’14 (2008–2013), Babson’s 12th president, brought to the College extraordinary leadership experience in academia and industry. He formulated the conversations that led to the development of today’s strategy, starting with a community-wide discussion and decisions around Babson’s strategic direction. That work resulted in a strategy focused on Entrepreneurial Thought and Action® as the core of Babson’s distinctive expertise and culture; integrating social, environmental, economic responsibility, and sustainability into the core of the curriculum and educational experience; building a generation of leaders representing Entrepreneurship of All Kinds™; and creating a Global Consortium of Entrepreneurship Education to disseminate Entrepreneurial Thought and Action to the world through a network of educators and institutions.

In 2013, Kerry Healey was named Babson’s 13th president and is the first woman to hold the position. Internationally recognized for her more than three decades of service in academia, government, and humanitarian work, she believes deeply in the transformational power of entrepreneurship to create opportunities for positive economic and social development everywhere. President Healey is expanding and enhancing Babson’s institutional profile as the recognized global leader in entrepreneurship education and is preparing to lead the College’s Centennial Campaign to accelerate Babson’s success into its second century of academic leadership, innovation, and excellence.

Babson is consistently ranked among the nation’s top management schools. The College has received international recognition for its innovative educational programs for undergraduate and graduate students and business professionals. With a distinguished reputation for entrepreneurial excellence, Babson teaches students to make and find opportunities, to innovate, and to develop creative problem-solving ability.

The key to Babson’s success are its people—students, faculty, administrators, alumni, governance members, and parents who share a passion for excellence and have helped the College grow.

THE COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY dates to medieval times. Through the centuries, the ceremony has been altered, but its purpose remains the same: to recognize those persons who have earned academic degrees and to honor the traditions and institutions of scholarship.

The term commencement is a translation of the Latin inceptio, the name given in the Middle Ages to the ceremony at which candidates were granted the master of arts degree and thereby licensed to begin teaching. Today, the original concept has been broadened to suggest that, at commencement, degree recipients are graduating from academic life and commencing their professional life.

The history of academic regalia stretches far back to the early days of the world’s oldest universities. A statute in 1321 required that all doctors, licentiates, and bachelors of the University of Coimbra (Portugal) wear gowns. In England, in the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade “excess in apparel” and prescribed wearing the long gown.
In 1895, American colleges and universities adopted a uniform system for academic regalia. Today, while the academic dress code, like the ceremony itself, has undergone several revisions, it remains essentially the same as when it was first adopted.

The gowns recommended for use by American colleges and universities have the following characteristics. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves and is worn closed. The gown for the master’s degree has oblong sleeves open at the wrist like the bachelor’s and may be worn open or closed. Both bachelor’s and master’s robes are traditionally black. The doctoral gown, which also may be worn open or closed, has velvet panels draped around the neck and stitched down the front edges. Three horizontal velvet bars are sewn on the upper arm of the bell-shaped sleeves. This trim may be either black or the color distinctive of the faculty to which the degree refers. Many institutions have adopted distinctively colored doctoral robes using the official institutional colors.

Members of the governing body of a college or university, whatever their degrees, are entitled to wear doctoral gowns (with black velvet), but their hoods may be only those of degrees actually held by the wearers or those especially prescribed for them by the institution.

The hood is the most distinctive feature of the academic costume. The shape of the bachelor’s and master’s hoods is similar, but the length varies. The hood lining is the official color or colors of the institution. The Babson hood, for example, is forest green with a single white chevron. The hood is edged in velvet of two, three, or five inches in width for the bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The edging should be in a color distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. Among the most common trims are tan for business administration; white for arts, letters, and humanities; golden yellow for science; and light blue for education.

The traditional academic cap for all degrees is the mortarboard of black cloth with a flat, stiffened square top. Today, there is an option, particularly for those holding doctoral or terminal degrees, to wear a soft cap. These are of several designs and in many cases represent a particular college or university. The tassel, fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap, may be black or the color appropriate to the subject. Those holding doctorates may wear a tassel of gold thread. There is no general rule for the position of the tassel on a mortarboard. However, Babson and a number of colleges and universities have adopted the practice of requiring candidates for the bachelor’s degree to wear the tassel on the right front side before degrees are conferred and to shift it to the left after the degrees are awarded.
In today’s ceremony, some graduates are wearing cords, tassels, medallions, stoles, and cloths that represent specific designations. Below are those related to academic honors:

The origin of the mace also dates to medieval times when it was first used as a weapon. Medieval European bishops, forbidden the use of the sword, were allowed to enter battle with a mace, often an iron or steel club designed to split armor. By the 16th century, the mace, a symbol of authority, was embraced as a ceremonial object by colleges and universities. Traditionally, the mace is carried on formal academic occasions by the most senior faculty member, often referred to as the “chief” or “grand” marshal of the institution.

The mace of Babson College was designed and crafted by Chas. Thomae & Son, silversmiths, and has been one of the symbols of the authority of the College for many years. Today, it is carried by the chief marshal of Babson College.

Today’s Commencement also features flags of the world. These flags represent the homelands of the Babson undergraduate and graduate students. With students from more than 80 countries, and faculty members involved in research, training, and development around the world, Babson’s international presence is evident and we are proud to honor it with this display.
